

Helping Children Meet and Know God in Everyday Life

Discover simple ways to help your children meet and know God through everyday life, not just church activities.

Both the discipling that happens at home in the everyday and the influence of the church community that wraps around the family are vital for our children and teens' faith journeys. There are some things only parents and carers can offer, and others that only church can provide. They need both.

Embrace being a parent: you have thousands of hours a year with them, rather than the 200 or so hours they spend in church. God set up children's discipleship to have family at its core. It's not about more church; it's simply sharing your life with God with them and journeying alongside them as they work things out for themselves.

01 The Five Key Tools

- Creating Windows
- Framing
- Unwinding
- Chat and Catch
- Surfing the Waves

02 Discussion questions

- What has worked for your family in terms of discipling at home? What hasn't worked so well?

- Who was influential in your journey of faith as a child or young person? What did they do?
 - Are you familiar with Parenting for Faith’s five key tools? If so, which have you tried and what happened?
-

FIND OUT MORE

- › The Five Key Tools

SPACE FOR YOUR THOUGHTS
